At the opening of the hearing yesterday, Francis M. Curlee, counsel for the bed spring firm, asked for dismissal of the complaint on the ground that the CIO union had ordered employes not to give statements to company counsel. This action, Curlee contended, "terrorized" company workers and prevented the company from proper preparation of a defense.

Board's Attorney William J. Avrutis, objecting to the motion, declared that such interrogation could serve no useful purpose and added that the board would be willing to produce any witness de-sired by the company, providing the testimony sought was pertinent to the issue. Curlee replied that the company would oppose any such limitation on witnesses.

Motion Under Advisement.
A motion by the company for subpenas for all of the 162 production employes at the manufacturing ant was taken under adviser by the examiner after lengthy argument by opposing counsel. Cur-lee declared the action of the CIO union in ordering employes not to talk to counsel had made the request necessary.

Avrutis declared the issuance of 162 subpenas would necessitate closing of the plant and that the motion was "an attempt to intimi-date employes" by throwing them out of work for duration of the hearing.

The company is charged with having fired one employe for union activities, attempting to establish a "company union," maintaining a "spy" system in the plant and other unfair labor practices. The com-plaint grew out of a strike which began April 20 with a sitdown demonstration. The strike ended June 14, with the company recog-nizing the C I O union as exclusive bargaining agency for production

After Conference With Runciman, Premier Offers More Government Jobs to Germans.

PRAHA, Aug. 19.—Premier Milan Hodza disclosed today that the Czechoslovak Government would grant political favors in an attempt to pacify its autonomy-seeking Sudeten German minority. The Premier made the disclosure in a conference with Viscount nan, unofficial British mediator in the minority issue.

Lord Runciman's conference with Hodza followed his meeting for the first time yesterday with Konrad Henlein, leader of the 3,500,000 Nazi-supported Sudeten Germans. Seven postmasterships in larger communities—including Bodenback, Asch and Rumburg—are to be given the Sudeten Germans. Some Other Jobs. From their ranks, it was said, also would be selected the chief of overseers—who directs public works—at Bruenn; district governors at Asch, Trautenau and possibly other communities, and more employes of the railroad administration. The Premier said the Ministry of

The Premier said the Ministry of Justice was giving favorable consideration, too, to appointment of a Sudeten German as president of the regional court at Eger.

A member of the British mission said these were concessions of a "positive, specific nature which form a substantial basis for negotiations with the Sudetan German tiations with the Sudeten German opposition."

Lord Runciman told Hodza he welcomed the action taken by the Government in this respect."

Most of their interview, it was acknowledged, concerned Lord Runciman's talk with Henlein.

Attitude of Henlein. No authoritative source, however, was disposed to talk of yesterday's meeting in Castle Rothenhaus and the impression grew that Henlein's attitude was unyielding.

"It becomes clear that the Henlein party still is disinclined to ne-gotiate on a concrete basis," comnented the newspaper Lidove No-spective territories.

Among the guests at the castle was a relative of the Prince, Princess Steffie Hohenlohe. She was Henlein's hostess during a visit he made to London May 12-15.

Sees Natives Giving Nazi Salute.

During his motor trip from Praha to the castle near Komotau, Lord Runciman could see natives giving the Hitler salute, saying "Heil Hitler" and displaying Nazi flags—indications of their support of the Pan German idea.

The community is in an acute

The community is in an acute state of tension over the minority question. Citizens excitedly dis-cussed disorders which occurred at nearby Breux Wednesday when Sudetens and Czechs clashed at a ceremony incident to inauguration of a German mayor, Alois Ott. Su-detens told members of the British mission that 70 persons were inmission that 10 persons were injured in the fighting and that their shouts of "Heil Hitler" were answered by cries of "Heil Moscow."

Sudetens blamed Communists for the replies, and Czechs blamed provocative Germans as attempting to an the trouble on Communists. pin the trouble on Communists.

Nazi Organ Says Czechoslovakia Cannot Evade Issue Nok. BERLIN, Aug. 19.—The German Foreign Office mouthpiece, Deutsche Diplomatische Politische Korre-spondenz, said yesterday that Czechoslovakia's Sudeten German minority had put its autonomy de-mands anew in such "a clear factual manner" that the Praha Govern-ment could not evade the issue. The Foreign Office mouthpice said the Czechoslovak Government's task now is to reveal "whether it will continue to pass over the heart of the matter, or at last give up its blind policy, revise its stand-point and thereby manifest its will to come to an agreement which will lead to a peaceful and final solu-

DETROIT, Aug. 19.-Howard Mills, the Browns' southpaw sailor man, faced the Detroit Tigers in the second game of a doubleheader here this afternoon after Hank Greenberg's two home runs beat the men of Gabby Street in the opener, 8 to 7. Eldon Auker hurled for Detroit in the nightcap.

Greenburg added another home run in the first inning of the second game to boost his total for the season to 41. Fork also hit a four-bagger in the same round. When Greenberg faced Oral Hil-lebrand in the fourth inning of the first game the bases were filled with two out and the Tigers were trailing, 7 to 2. The slugging first baseman drove the ball into the upper deck of the left field bleachers and trotted around the bases behind Chester Morgan, Bill Rogell and Charlie Gehringer. He thus reduced the St. Louis' margin to 7 to 6.

WEILAND BEATS LEADERS WITH FOUR-HIT GAME

Mize Hits His 17th Home Run of Campaign-Birds Play Reds After Open Date Today.

By James M. Gould.

Those Pirates of Pittsburgh, enjoying a five-game lead over the second-place Giants of New York, certainly look like good bets to win the National League pennant, but they're no "team of the century" from any standpoint. There was little real class to their performances here in the two-game series with the Cardinals which was conwith the Cardinals which was con-cluded yesterday when the Red-birds slapped them down by a 5-1

True, the Pirates managed an even break but, winning the open-er, they showed plenty of jitterish-Way" Corrigan and taking the de-cision in 10 innings more by what the French call "bonne chance" than by any great superiority of play. Yesterday, losing, they showed a lack of effective pitching and their attack was powder-puff-ish enough for any deb on a hot summer day.

Against Bob Weiland the league three of them singles and the other a homer. In seven of the nine innings, they went hitless, getting two safeties in the first and two in the seventh and in the seven hitless men to first, all on infield errors.

They may win the pennant—probably will—but, if they do, it will be more because of the weak-ness of the league than because of their own strength.

What, Another Hurricane!

LOOKS LIKE there's another hurricane blowing up in the southwest part of the Missouri Valley Conference. It's the Gold-en Hurricane of Tulsa, Ok., where formerly the fire cepartment and the Tulsa University are said to have collaborated in producing one first-class football machine.

No collaboration will be needed to launch a first-class Hurricane this year. It's likely to which last year swept over Valley rivals to a championship.

This year the eleven will still have the great passer Tommy Thompson, the great runner Mor-ris White and its fine tackle Co-Captain Cal Thomas among the The only factor lacking about the 1938 squad is said to be replacements. The way we figure it, they won't need these because when the Hurricane gets up full speed the opponents will be the team needing substitutes. .

Our Hopes Blighted Early.

IN ST. LOUIS our Valley hopes are likely to be blighted early. Jimmy Conzelman's Bears — a team without a star, he calls them-will encounter rough go-ing right from the beginning. It's not in the cards, ordinarily, because rival schools have larger football enrollment, attract better quality of material because of better inducements, and don't bear down on their UNCLE MIKE JACOBS is thinking of giving us a tournament to determine the man who will face Joe Louis, after Louis bats Max Baer out of the picture at San Francisco, next April.

What's that? How do we know Joe can do it? Why, man, I saw him do it. But I don't think I'll see Joe do it again—it wouldn't be worth a trip from St.

But, getting back to the elimination tournament: The prospect is almost as bleak as in the days when they canvassed the country for a white hope to face Johnson. Then they had Carl Morris, Tom Kennedy, Al Palzer, Lute McCarthy and that sort.

moter Jacobs Will Rematch Lightweights -Henry Will Not Relinquish Feather Title.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—A repetition of the 15-round thriller Henry Armstrong and Lou Ambers unreled in Madison Square Garden Wednesday night was promised New Yorkers today, but they're going to have to wait some time to set it.

Both Al Weill, manager of the defeated Ambers, and Eddie Mead, who pilots Armstrong, first man in ring history to wear three crowns at one time, agreed to do an encore for Mike Jacobs as soon as Armstrong recovers from the cutting up Ambers gave him.

Dr. Alexander Schiff, who took more than 10 stitches in Armstrong's lip, told Mead it will require two and maybe three months for the lip to mend properly. Armstrong will need an additional with the set into condition.

for the lip to mend properly. Armsiring will need an additional month to get into condition.

"Henry has one of the worst cut lips I have seen in 30 years of treating fighters' wounds," Dr. Schiff told Mead. The holder of the featherweight, welterweight and lightweight titles spent today crating up his collec-tion for ship ent to California. Armstrong and Mead go west to-morrow. Later the Negro will take s trip to Honolulu with his wife. Mead made it plain Armstrong has no intention of surrendering the featherweight title he won from Petey Sarron last October. "We've promised Ed Bang to defend that promised Ed Bang to defend that title on the Christmas Fund show he runs each year for the Cleveland News," he said. "Henry's opponent will be Jackie Wilson, Ginger Fo-ran, Mike Belloise or Leo Rodak." Ambers, who came out of the batle in much better physical trim than his conqueror, took it easy round town yesterday. He leaves today on a fishing trip and then will go to Quebec for a visit. "The first thing Lou said to me when he woke up yesterday morning after the fight was to make another Armstrong match for him," mid Al Weill. "Mead is willing and we'll fight as soon as his boy is the share. Ambers, will be ready in shape. Ambers will be ready after a month's rest." Ambers collected $33,860.22 for his heating. Armstrong's end was $20,-76618. Revised figures show the gross gate was $107,280.94 and the total attendance 19,216.

Apparently pained by four leg locks in succession, Jumping Joe showed that he was only fooling when he jumped up and kicked Jimmy Coffield of Kansas to the mat and pinned him after 45 minutes 12 seconds of their bout at the Coliseum last night.

Coffield twisted Joe's leg every way but off and when Joe finally escaped from the fourth punishing leg lock, it was all he could do, it seemed, to limp around the ring.

Two More Riders Hurt in Spill at Washington Park

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Two jockeys vere injured yesterday in the secand bad spill in three days at Washington Park.

Earl Steffen of Capron, Ok., suffered a fractured collarbone and Bob Finnerty of New Orleans a wrenched back. The spill occurred when Steffen got in close quarters with Bienchance at the far turn in the first race. When he was forced to ease his mount back a trifle, Stepladder, with Finnerty up, crashed into the Valdina Farm's filly. Both horses went sprawling. Jockey Charley Rollins fell off. Flying Lill in the fifth race as the field left the post, but was unhurt, Clayton Perkins of Cairo, Neb., was in a serious condition at a hospital with a ruptured kidney and concussion of the brain suffered in a spill Tuesday. Eugene Myers of Chicago suffered a fractured collarbone in the same spill.

GOOD TIME WAS HAD BY ALL

At Queen's University (Kingston, Ontario), where an honorary degree was conferred on him, Mr. Roosevelt set out to captivate his audience, which he can do in par on any course. Right here should be squelched the unkind and unworthy rumor, probably originated by the Liberty League, that it was a summer school degree; it was, on the contrary, a genuine certificate of vicarious learning that Canadian, as are a first-class blunder, both in public reaction and well as American universities, hand out with impar- in the disclosure of the schism in its own ranks. tiality to Presidents, potentates, assorted stuffed shirts and the tight-fixted alumnus who comes up at last with a check for the new stadium.

In his pleasing way, Mr. Roosevelt said he was glad to be again on Canadian soil, where he passed "so many happy hours of my life." He is warranted in saying this because of the Roosevelt summer place at Campobello, as he is warranted in calling Georgia his second home and, of course, as he is warranted in his claiming residence at Hyde Park, Albany, New York and Washington. Mr. Roosevelt, whether it be in Amarillo, Walla Walla or Kokomo, furthermore. can almost always truthfully tell the crowd how happy he is to be here again, and how he wishes he can come back some time.

Let the envious rave and the captious snort, but the President, by assiduous pilgrimages here and there, has fairly earned the right to regard the Western Hemisphere as just a large and friendly neighborhood. And whatever tank towns or coal mines he hasn't visited, Mrs. Roosevelt has.

THE POLITICIANS SEE THEIR CHANCE.

The Board of Control of the City Art Museum, hav ing sowed the wind, is now beginning to reap the whirlwind. The St. Louis Board of Estimate, consisting of Mayor Dickmann, Comptroller Nolte and President Mason of the Board of Aldermen, has voted. to recommend to the Board of Aldermen that it arrange for a popular referendum en a proposal to repeal the 2-cent tax which supports the Museum. In the place of this tax, over whose use the city government has no control, the Board of Estimate would establish a 1-cent tax, whose revenues it would have the power to regulate.

For this unfortunate development, the Museum Board has, as we said the other day of the controversy, only itself to blame. Its policy of costly antiquarian purchases has brought popular criticism upon the Museum and opened the way for demagogic attacks on its very existence. The present resentment did not develop overnight. A long series of similar purchases was well impressed on the public mind. The unhappy cat only touched things oft.

But that is all so much water over the dam, however muddy the water may be, when it is proposed that the Museum tax be cut in half and the expenditures of the Museum be made subject to the control of the Board of Estimate. The fault is not with the system which happily provides a security from the political management and existence by sufferance of politicians, who have little or no interest in art. This system was established by St. Louis voters 20 years ago for a reason as definite as it was good.

Heavy responsibility, however, goes with this security. Five members of the St. Louis section of the American Artists' Congress expressed it well in their open letter to the Museum Board:

For many years we have been both proud and grateful to know that the operation of our and grateful to know that the operation of our city Art Museum was protected from the menace of political chicanery by the establishment of a special tax fund to be used for the upkeep of the Museum. While this tax fund places you would be a fact of the city Hall machinations, it does not release you from obligations to the general public for whom you act as trustees.

The Museum Board has been unwise. The Board of Estimate is unwise in its proposal. Two wrongs posed of men of reason and their education on this purchase. Meanwhile, the bid of the politicians for the right to handle or to cut off Art Museum funds should be denounced in public outburst which will stop it once and for all!

THE NEW YORK RAIL-SPLITTER.

A Comer in British Politics

Hore Belisha, who combines talent for publicity with knack of getting things done, has captured imagination of Britain; won acclaim as War Minister by modernizing and mechanizing the army, replacing tradition bound Generals with younger men, who think in terms of present-day warfare; premiership is goal of his ambition.

Iim Marshall in Collier's Weekly.

"THIS 'ere 'Ore-Belisha," said the cock-ney atop the bus, "'e's a bright one, 'e is. 'Eaded for Prime Minister of England, I shouldn't wonder."

"Oh, aye!" agreed his companion. "'E's a man who gets things done."

That's about the way 50,000,000 Britishers size up Leslie Hore-Belisha, their Minister of War. His most recent achievements, outside of rebuilding the British Army, were the soothing of the enfant terrible of Europe, Benito Mussolini, and the working out of an Anglo-French alliance.

He may not have invented the army modernization idea, or the Mussolini-han ing plan, or the scheme of chumming up again with England's volatile neighbors cross the channel. But he gets cre these things, mainly because he talks loudly and long about himself and usually manages to be down in front with a smile ready when the newspaper men come around and the cameras start to click and grind.

As for becoming Premier—No. 1 job of the British Empire—that's really his own idea. Benjamin Disraeli, another Jew, made the grade. Leslie thinks he can make it, too.

But that will have to wait until after the war-the war that all Europe expects within two years. To win the war—or at least be on the winning side—England is depending largely on the florid, heavy-jow eyed man who first won fame through a glass globe atop a 10-foot pole. That was the Belisha beacon, which got him publicity not only in England but in America, too. A beacon is simply a one-foot yellow globe stuck on top of a black and white standard. Thousands of them are set in the curbing of London and other Britpainted stripe of safety zone running across a street. In this zone walkers are supposed to be safe—and, surprisingly enough, usually are. There are 10,000 of these beacons in London alone. Every time a Britisher looks at one, he thinks of Hore-Belisha.

The boy Leslie was born in a tall, threea northwest London suburb, Sept. 7, 1893, which makes him 45 years old this year. That's pretty young for a British War Min-

While he was at school, his father died. His mother remarried in 1912. Her new husband was Sir Charles Hore, a Government official. Leslie Belisha hitched his own name to his stepfather's, a not uncom-

own name to his steptathers, a not uncommon British practice.

The war came along. He enlisted; at 21 went through the conflict and came out a Major. He went to Oxford, played football, became a useful 100-yard-dash man and read some law. He was so busy at the university that he had little time for study. But he found time to learn Greek, French and Italian. He speaks and reads half a dozen Italian. He speaks and reads half a do languages today.

In 1922 his stepfather suggested that he should "stand for Parliament." During his early years in Parliament he made little impression. Then he started to make a name for himself as an asker of embarrassing questions. The big chance came in 1983, who he was made Minister of Transport. The tob included a lot of mine-run stuff—but his chance and took it. He announced he his chance and took it. He announced he was going to stop mass murder on the roads and started flooding the country with pamphlets, rules and hints. Hore-Belisha got his picture in all the papers every day.

Just what Leslie's politics are no one quite knows—not even Leslie. He has the faculty of sensing what the public wants before the public grows vocal about it. When he was made War Minister in the Chamberlain Cabinet in 1937, he got the idea the public was tired of old-fogyism in the army. It turned

The army was run, as it had been for centuries, by aged and gallant Generals whose military ideas had never got much farther than Waterloo. Discipline was enforced harshly. The British Tommy was treated as a half-witted child. Both modernization and chanization of the fighting force were bitmechanization of the lighting force were dit-terly fought from the top. As a result, re-cruiting was almost at a standstill.

Hore-Belisha changed all that. The old Generals were retired; younger men, with a modern outlook, replaced them. The army was made more homelike. Leaves were granted more freely. Men were given smart new uniforms, allowed a night out once in a

England has always believed in a small, efficient, professional army, backed up by militiamen known as Territorials officiall and as "The Terriers" by popular consent Today, both branches are well organized and well equipped. Of course, Leslie didn't do it all. Modernization started some years ago. But it's a good bet that in the next war, the army will turn up as "Belisha's boys." Hore-Belisha, despite his flamboyant ex-terior, his spectaular tastes, is a simple fellow. He works hard, often until 3 in the that shines in the lamplight Canny political opinion in England is that Hore-Belisha still is on the way up. The Air Ministry is said to be the next step. Then, a few years hence, in some crisis when the British are doing their famous muddling-through act and things need doing thoroughly and ruthlessly, the King will ask Mr. Hore-Belisha to step around to Buckingham Palace and talk over forming a new Cabinet.

When and if that happens, Leslie will be halfway to the palace before the King hangs up the phone. And as he goes out, he'll tip his silk kelly to the bust of Benjanin Disraeli, England's only Jewish Premier military array during the time when the Czech and Spanish problems are at the crucial point of decision. It is not necessary to conclude from this that they now intend to go to war. On the contrary, all past ex-perience indicates that Hitler will increase the pressure and the threat to the breaking point, watching for some weakness on the other side, some crack in their armor into which he can drive his sword without provoking a general

The question for him and for the world is whether the Franco-British alliance can withstand the tremendous pressure to which it is being subjected, whether the two peoples can maintain their resolution through a prolonged psychological attack on their nerves and their rill. They have to remain ready will. They have to remain ready and firm without resorting to any of the measures by which the dic-tators daily whip up a warlike at-titude among their peoples. Their leaders have to damp down feeling and, in order not to seem provoca moral record clear, they have to put their people halfway to sleep. Yet they have also to keep them sufficiently awake.

As a test of character, and of the true discipline which really free men can acquire, the present be-havior of the French and British peoples is admirable. For there is othing harder for a nation or for an individual than to remain very quiet and yet unterrified in the presence of increasing and aproaching danger.

The human impulse is to do some thing, anything, that breaks the tension of imports of food, raw sion and relieves the pent up em tion. RAILS LEAD LATE RALLY

Wishful Thinking Largely Responsible for Buying in Carriers - Railroads' Inportant Announcement Not Bullish News Anticipated.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The stock market turned on its rallying steam in the latter part of today's session and leading issues, paced by the rails, pushed up fractions of 3 points.

The forward swing followed word from Washington that the Association of American Railroads would have an "important" announcement to make before the close. Wall Street immediately jumped to the conclusion this might mean a wage cut compromise. Buyers got aboard the carrier stocks and other groups joined the excursion. There was a let-down near the finish when the filed a petition for the extension of coal rate increases.

While volume broadened on the move, it was not sufficient to put the ticker tape behind and, in the closing hour, momentum died down derably and extreme gains were reduced substantially. Transfers were 822,000 shares, almost double yesterday's turnover.
Some Wishful Thinking.

Some Wishful Thinking.

In addition to the wishful thinking regarding the carriers, trading European advices that the Czecho slovak Government, through the in-tercession of British Viscount Runiman, had agreed to compromise with the Sudeten Germans and tender them important posts in the mean at least a temporary lessen-

Business news, on the whole, continued as a moderately buoying influence and did much to halt the light selling which handicapped the list Thursday.

Steels and motors, somewhat backward in early proceedings, joined other industrials in the belated climb, but most backed away at the last.

Tire company issues were well in front most of the day. Mail orders, farm implements, coppers and a wide assortment of specialties were given a whirl.

A jump of more than 10,000 units this week's automobile output aided the motors as well as the steels. The latter responded to prospects for much larger orders the motor makers as production of new cars was expected to continue an upward trend through the fall and early winter months. Better steel mill operations were believed to be in the offing for the National Dairy Products, J. C. Penney, Owens-Illinois and American bonds leaned upward with rail stocks. Commodities improved. Wheat at Chicago was up ½ to 1 cent a bushel and corn advanced ¾ to 1½. Cotton, in late transactions, was up 15 to 20 cents Sterling, near mid-afternoon, was up % of a cent at $4.88 and the French franc was .00% of a cent higher at 2.73 cents. News of the Day.

Some extension of the gold hoarding urge was again seen overseas and the price of the yellow metal n was lifted a trifle, but TITHEN the X-ray was first announced 33 years ago, it was no won der that few people could grasp its significance. Some thought it would never be useful for anything. Some fiatly disbelieved in the dea of a kind of ray which would penetrate otherwise opaque material

Then it became evident that it was very useful in the surgery of bone, and in the diagnosis not only of fractures and dislocations, but of every kind of disease of bones. It was never thought that it could be useful in the diagnosis of disease of the soft tissues because these threw no shadow on the X-ray plate. But before long Dr. Cannon of Harvard showed that the powdery looking white salts of such metals as bismuth and barium could be made up into a sort of milk shake, and when swallowed would outline the stomach and intestines. Here was a new field for the X-ray, quickly followed by the findings that improvements in X-ray apparatus would allow the outline of the heart and the great arteries of the chest to be seen. Also the lungs were so clearly seen that even very small areas of diseased tissue could be made out. In this way, the diagnosis of tuberculosis has become very much more accurate and can often be made earlier than previously.

HERE, ONE WOULD have thought, the radiologist would have been content to stop, but no, he went on to other fields to conquer. Diseases of the gall-bladder, while common enough, were known to be difficult to recognize in all stages—and gallstones, unlike other stones, do not throw a shadow on the X-ray plate as a rule. But Dr. Evarts A. Graham of St. Louis devised a special chemical form of dye that is concentrated by the bile, and with this a normal gall-bladder can be distinguished from a diseased one and gallstones outlined, etc.

Even more remarkable was the introduction of a substance known as thorotrast. This has the remarkable quality, when it is injected into the body, of attaching itself to certain cells, known as the reticuloendothelial cells. It forms a loose chemical combination with them and casts a dense black shadow on the X-ray plate.

SINCE THE reticulo-endothelial cells are distributed in abundance to certain organs—spleen, liver, bone marrow—and hardly at all to EDWARD G. ROBINSON IS "THE to certain organs—spleen, liver, bone marrow—and hardly at all to others—kidneys for instance—we have a way of outlining the size and the AMAZING DR. CLITTERHOUSE" AT THE AMBASSADOR—NEUROLOGIST shape of these organs with an accuracy that could be obtained no other BY DAY, GANG LEADER BY NIGHT.

Besides that, the reticulo-endothelial cells exist almost entirely in normal tissue and not at all in diseased tissue, so diseased tissue will be seen as punched out areas on such X-ray plates.

Even more recent are dyes which outline the heart valves and ves sels of the lungs, of which mention was made here recently.

Hostess and Guests By Emily Post

EAR Mrs. Post:

Dis it improper to suggest to guests who are staying in the house that they are staying up much too late for the comfort of the family? And how would one be able to get this idea across to them without offending any one?

Offending any one?

Offending any one?

Answer: To guests who are staying in the house, it is usually the hostess who suggests retiring. This rule, however, is not very definite, and it is certainly proper to say to one's hostess (whom one probably knows very well or one wouldn't be a house visitor), I'm feeling rather tired and I think I

DEAR MRS. POST: How many times should wineglasses be refilled? (1) When only one wine is served? (2) If several kinds of wine are served, is one serving of each suficient?

Answer: (1) The wineglass should be kept filled up to a reasonable amount, (2) The glass is filled only once, and then that particular glass is removed at the end of the course.

DEAR MRS. POST: Is it in good taste for a guest who wants some thing at the table to speak directly to the maid who is serving, or should he address the hostess, and let her instruct the maid?

Answer: If the maid is within easy speaking distance, he should say to her, "I'd like another piece of bread, please"-or whatever he may want, since this is least disturbing. But if she is out of the room, then it is necessary of course to tell the hostess what he wants, and she then rings for the maid and gives the order.

DEAR MRS. POST: My husband and I have been married almost a year and now my husband would like to have me give him a wedding band even at this late date. Would this be proper?

Answer: Certainly, if he would like to have it. After tirely a question of sentiment between him and you.

The customs in Chicago vary just a little from those in St. Louis where, like most Southern places, lighter clothes and lighter colors are worn later. Because of possible warm days, you will need one or two street dresses of light

Founder of Lane Bryant Stores Once Worked in Factory for Dollar a Week

By Marguerite Martyn

THE little woman who first had the idea of making stylish dresses for stout women, the idea that grew into the $14,000,000-a-year Lane Bryant business, now says it was just an accident or a circumstance for which she was little accountable. And that the trade name of the stores which now number seven in large cities and a chain of 17 operated under other names in smaller cities, a mail order house doing a $4,000,000 a year business, shoe, corset and foundation garment factories and several dress factories, was decidedly an accident.

Her second husband, Albert Malsin, she insisted, is entitled to all the credit for bringing up the baby, COULD sew. It was all I could do," Mrs. Malsin related. "Since arriving in America at the age of 16 with my grandparents from Russia, I had worked in a garment factory. At first, since I knew so little, I was paid $1 a week. But I was quick and neat and before long the forelady was turning special tasks over to me and my pay was increased rap-idly to $15 a week. "Then I married an American.

I would search through big stores discovered me and beset the stores for bits of remnants of me with orders. I worked hard, fine satins and crepes and bits of often till two in the morning and lace which I could pick up for a often with the baby in my lap.

I wanted to do fine sewing on fine in the stores in those days. Soon

Romance intervened. Lena Bryant married Albert Malsin. Three babies were born within four years. That didn't interrupt business, however. "I hardly missed a day from work," she said. The partnership terminated only when 15 years ago her husband died. He left a vastly expanded corporation with stockholders widely scattered, many among employes of the stores, but the stores of the store of the stores of the store of the Somehow you always think of large women when you think of Lane Bryant, since it was on stylish stouts its reputation was built, although nowadays they stock all sizes. But it is one store in which models and saleswomen more than the perfect 36 are employed. So it the perfect 36 are employed. So it is surprising to find Mrs. Malsin decidedly under the classical proportions, a little plump partridge of a woman, chic enough in her powder blue and white dotted sheer assemble, but more the motherly.

or death. And the British privates, seeing how brave the officers were, felt and acted bravely themselves.

This psychology is used by some of the air lines. For example, the first time I found myself above the clouds I was frightened. But when a charming petite air hostess stood beside me and chatted so calmly and serenely, I said to myself, "Well, if that little girl isn't frightened, why should be I be?"

Let me repeat; emotional atti-tudes are contagious. So let's radito have. If we want others to be happy, let us be happy. If we want others to be enthulastic, let us be enthuiastic ourselves.

Camilla Learns From Chris of the Death of Her Mother-At His Insistence, She Accepts a Loan From Him to Meet Funeral Expenses.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE. HRISTOPHER'S face was grave. He closed the door saying, "Sit down, Camilla! I have some bad news for you.

SYNOPSIS:

CAMILLA WOOD tell in love with CHRISTOPHER CLARK, an executive in her firm, while she was on an overnight business trip to St. Louis. She is thrilled when he is transferred to her home shop, but is disappointed when he reminds her of the company rule that executives and department heads may have no social relations. Camilla tries to forget him by having dates with WALLACE FISHER, her former boy firend, and QUENTIN PETERS, a lady-killer, whom she meets through PAUL BENTON, her divorced sister JEAN'S current except to Camilla that he is engaged to CLAUDIA PIERCE, the boas daughter, and although Camilla wants to quit her job, she dare not financially because the sanitarium wires that her mother is worse. Wallace to quit her job, she dare not tinancially because the sanitarium wires that her mother is worse. Wallace Fisher telephones and asks if he might fore in and Camilla agrees.

Fisher announces he is marrying a widow and departs, leaving Camilla alone. Ouentin Peters drops in and Camilla weeps in his arms. They go for a ride and dinner and Quentin kisses her when he brings her home.
The next day Clark telephones Camilla to come to his office.
